

WOODHURST.

THE SCOUTS.—The Rev. H. R. C. Lovell, writing in the St. Ives, Oldhurst and Woodhurst Parish Magazine, thanks those who helped to make the Scouts' camp at Hunstanton possible.

THE FOURTH COMMANDMENT.—“In the Fourth Commandment” (writes the Rev. H. R. C. Lovell, curate-in-charge of Oldhurst and Woodhurst, in the St. Ives Parish Magazine) “we are told to keep holy the Sabbath Day. We do not keep the Lord's Day holy by sitting in an armchair or by going for a walk. Rest and recreation are good and necessary, but the chief purpose of Sunday is worship, and we break the Fourth Commandment on every Sunday on which we willingly neglect to take part in the public worship of God.”

HIS MISFORTUNE.—James Gowler, of Brown's Yard, Woodhurst, was summoned at St. Ives on Monday for riding a bicycle without a light at Woodhurst at 9-40 p.m. on Aug. 25th.—P.c. Hyne stated that he was at the cross-roads at Bluntisham Heath, and saw defendant riding a bicycle without a light. As he approached witness he dismounted. He asked defendant why he had no light, and he replied: “I am sorry; I have only been riding a few yards.” He walked a few yards after leaving witness, and then rode away. Lighting-up time was at 9-2. It was a moonlight night. Defendant said his bicycle broke down, and that was what made him late. The free wheel went wrong, defendant adding, “It was my misfortune. I got on the 'bike,' it went round with me, and I rode about 10 yards.” Defendant was fined 2s. 6d.
