

Kindly deed reflects on a credit-worthy community

MANY thanks to the unknown person who picked up my wallet containing credit and banking cards, passes and driver's licence in St Ives on Thursday and delivered it, intact, to Ramsey police station.

This exemplary, anonymous act of honesty flies in the face of the prominence given nowadays to 'falling standards'.

I shudder to think of the inconvenience and losses I could have incurred had this person acted in a less considerate and responsible manner. Thank you so much.

All praise also to Ramsey police who kindly delivered my wallet when passing through Woodhurst.

This whole experience reflects great credit on our community which I am grateful to acknowledge.
